Although, Microsoft is a large part of everyone's daily work and play. It's time to allow the computer industry to innovate and that can not be done when one organization controls more than 80% of the market.

Microsoft should be broken up and made to compete with other and with the separate and newly partitioned Microsoft organizations. Similar to what occurred when AT&T and the regional Bell companies were formed.

Based upon the current judgment this will not happen. Yet, Microsoft must be changed by the final ruling.
